

IMPORTANT LEGAL UPDATE FOR CLIENTS REGARDING SUBOXONE

In our ongoing commitment to keep you informed about matters that may impact your health and legal rights, we need to discuss a significant issue related to Suboxone, a medication manufactured by Indivior. Suboxone, widely prescribed for opioid addiction and pain management, has recently been the focus of legal and medical scrutiny due to its link to severe dental issues.

Suboxone & Dental Health Concerns

A growing body of evidence has indicated that Suboxone, particularly in its sublingual film form, may cause severe tooth decay and other dental problems due to its acidic nature. What's particularly troubling is the allegation that Indivior, the manufacturer, might have been aware of these risks but did not provide adequate warnings to patients and healthcare providers.

FDA's Response & Legal Actions

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) intervened in 2022, mandating new warnings about the potential for severe dental problems, including tooth loss, for users of Suboxone. This regulatory action came as a response to numerous studies and reports of dental issues among Suboxone users.

In light of these developments, individuals affected by Suboxone-related dental injuries have started to seek legal recourse against Indivior. Claims include compensation for medical expenses, pain and suffering, lost wages, and cost of ongoing dental care.

Critical Time to Act

Notably, the window to take legal action is closing rapidly due to the statute of limitations, which has already expired in several states. With Massachusetts and other states approaching their deadline, it's crucial for affected individuals to evaluate their options.

Qualifying for a Lawsuit

You may be eligible to pursue a claim if you:

- Were prescribed Suboxone dissolvable film for opioid addiction or pain management.
- Used Suboxone for a minimum of six months before experiencing any dental injuries.
- Suffered from tooth loss, severe tooth decay, or had more than three tooth extractions before the inclusion of the new warning label in 2022.
- Obtained dental care before initiating Suboxone treatment.

Next Steps

The situation surrounding Suboxone, and its dental risks is complex, but you don't have to navigate it alone. If you or someone you know matches the criteria mentioned, we urge you to reach out for legal support without delay. Understanding your rights and the actions you can take to seek compensation is paramount.

Please contact us at 781-686-5924 to discuss your situation further. Our team is here to provide the guidance and support you need during this challenging time.

Contact Us Today!

DeSignore Law | 530 Washington St, Stoughton, MA 02072

Unsubscribe_mdelsign@gmail.com

Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice

Sent by michael@delsignorelaw.ccsend.com powered by

Try email marketing for free today!